NUMBER 43

THE FRESHMAN CLASS of Elba High School visited the Elba office of the General Telephone Company last Thursday in association with their science work. Each part of the telephone system was carefully explained and demonstrated to the students. After seeing and getting a clear understanding of the complicated principles and actions necessary in the use of a simple telephone, the students hold much more respect for this great invention.

Alabama Junior Colleges Are Making History

The State of Alabama is now joining one of the most remarkable educational developments in the twentieth century—the public junior college movement. It is very fortunate for the citizens of our state that these junior colleges will be ready to operate this fall—just in time to serve the rapidly increasing number of persons seeking higher educational opportunities.

Junior colleges are a comparatively new educational development in the United States and in Alabama. There were only a few private junior colleges operating in the nation prior to 1900, but now there are over 270 private junior colleges and over 425 public junior colleges in the United States.

Furthermore, the number of public junior colleges in the nation has been rapidly increasing since World War II. Now more junior colleges (two-year colleges) are being established each year than are new senior colleges (four-year colleges) and universities. The establishment of the new junior college system in Alabama will greatly add to this new development nationally of providing additional opportunities beyond the high school for our citizens to advance their education.

California has been the leading state in the nation in the number of public junior colleges (now over 70) and the number of junior college students (now over 400,000 part-time and full-time students). In the southeastern United States, the state of Mississippi was an early leader in the junior college movement when they established a number of junior colleges in the late 1920s as an extension of the old county agricultural schools. Florida has rapidly expanded its community junior colleges in the last decade to become one of the leaders in the nation. Kentucky, Georgia, and North Carolina have all taken action within the last few years to expand their junior college systems. This year action is being taken in Tennessee, Arkansas, and South Carolina to encourage the establishment of public junior colleges in these states.

Although eight private junior colleges, with a total enrollment now of over 2,000 students, have been serving Alabama for a number of years, prior to 1963 Alabama did not have any public junior colleges in operation. Back in 1961 the citizens in northwest Alabama were successful in having the State Legislature pass Act No. 888 authorizing the establishment of a junior college to be located in Franklin, Marion, or Winston County. Two years later Northwest Alabama Junior College, under the leadership of President James Glasgow, began operations at Phil Campbell in the fall of 1963 as the first public junior college in the state.

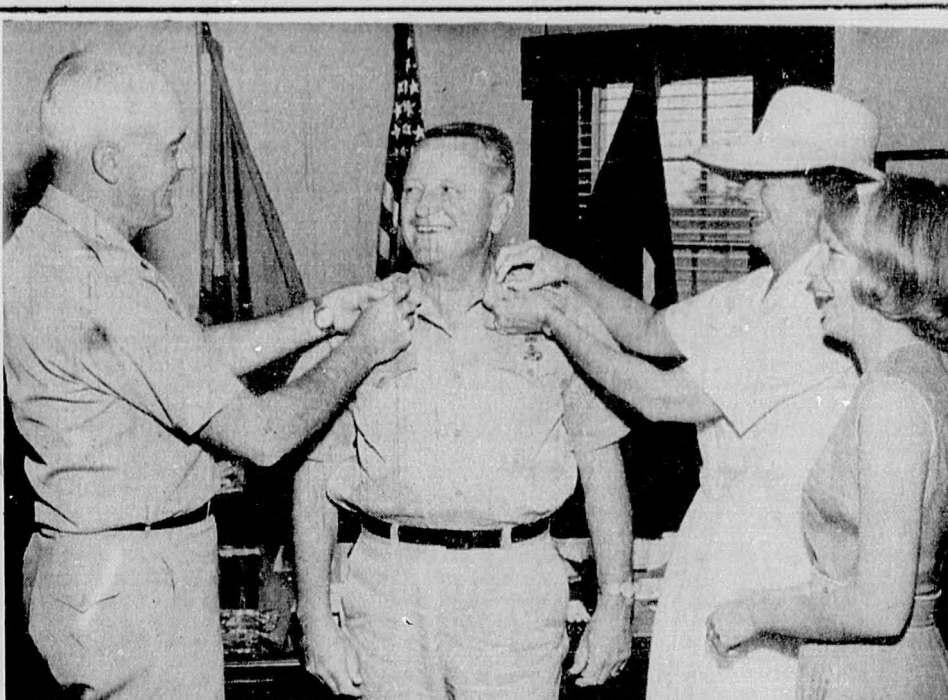

The special session of the 1961 State Legislature also authorized a junior college to be located in northeast Alabama in either Jackson or Dekalb County. However, no official action was taken on this authorization until the present state system of junior colleges was developed during Governor Wallace's administration.

Southern Union College at Watley, which had been operating as a private junior college since 1922, was authorized by the special session of the State Legislature in 1964 to become a member of the new state system of junior colleges. On October 1, 1964, Southern Union College under the leadership of President Walter Graham officially entered the state system of junior colleges and thus became the second public junior college to operate in Alabama.

The State of Alabama really entered the public junior college movement in full force when the 1963 State Legislature under the leadership of Governor George C. Wallace established the Alabama Trade School and Junior College Authority with the first $15,000,000 bond issue to finance the construction and equipment for new junior colleges and vocational-technical schools.

MAJ. GEN. JOHN J. TOLSON, commanding general of Ft. Rucker, received his second star in ceremonies in his office at the Army Aviation Center. Pinned on his new insignia were the commanding general of the Third U. S. Army, Lt. Gen. Charles W. G. Rich, who flew in from his headquarters at Ft. McPherson, Georgia, and Mrs. Tolson. General Tolson's daughter Harriet is the happy onlooker. Gen. Rich commented that he was particularly glad to participate in the ceremony as he had been present on two other promotions earlier in Gen. Tolson's career, when the Ft. Rucker commander was promoted to first lieutenant and to captain. Gen. Tolson received his second star almost four years to the day after being appointed brigadier general. He has commanded Ft. Rucker since March 1, 1965. He is the son of Mrs. Lillian B. Tolson of New Bern, North Carolina.

Wallace Backs "War On Traffic Hazards"

In an effort to reduce traffic accidents, which cause a staggering waste of life and property, Governor George C. Wallace has proclaimed May as "Vehicle Safety Check" month.

Wallace called upon every citizen to adhere to the theme of the annual safety check, "Join the Circle of Safety: Check Your Car—Check Your Driving—Check Accidents."

All traffic organizations, public officials, service and trade associations, schools and churches are hereby urged to make an active part in this traffic safety program to "promote safety in the Sixties." Wallace said in his proclamation.

The Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and the State Safety Coordinating Committee, in cooperation with the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators are sponsoring a nationwide effort to encourage voluntary safety checks of vehicles.

Almost one out of every six vehicles failed to pass the voluntary 1964 National Vehicle Safety Check. Of the three million cars and trucks safety-checked, nearly a half million were found to be in unsafe driving condition.

Bobbo Baker, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Baker, of Curtis, suffered a serious skull fracture when kicked by a horse. The accident happened as he was feeding the horse last Wednesday, April 28, between 4:30 and 5:00 p.m.

Bobbo was rushed by ambulance to the Baptist Hospital in Montgomery, where he is apparently making a satisfactory recovery.

Child Kicked By Horse

Commissioner Attilio J. Frassinelli.

Degone then called Mrs. Wyszynski and said she could come on down and get the car, but "bring the bananas."

"Don't worry," the housewife said. "I called the fruit man and he said he could get them for me on a moment's notice."

I figure that at 18 cents a pound and three to a pound, those bananas will cost me $75 to $100."

DeGone said he will give the bananas to the Newington Home for the Crippled Children and that, after a long talk with Mrs. Wyszynski, "we're the best of friends."

DeGone said business has picked up and that now everybody calls his agency about a car and wants to buy it for peanuts.

THE BIRDS at our Elba home makes so much noise every morning that daylight finds us getting up. There is no attempt to sleep with all that chattering going on among the birds. I soon learned that the blue jays were getting scolded from the other birds and I decided the blue jay, recognized as a thief, was trying to destroy the other bird nests, their eggs and young. So I was trying to chase off the blue jays when I realized I didn't have the time to be a "bird sifter", and I wouldn't be home enough to take care of them either. But none-the-less I couldn't sit by and let these thieves destroy a future bird generation.

We continue to have many birds in the backyard of our Florida home. We especially enjoy the Cardinals feeding in the feeder we have at our kitchen window where we can see all details and coloring of them. One of the most interesting bird actions I have seen lately was at Larry's home last week when a Mocking Bird was angry with the family cat. She dived down at that cat right there between Merle and I standing in the yard and we could hear her hiss except she was traveling at such speed. The cat just ignored her, but when she made a dive at Smokey, the small dog, he traveled.

I HAVE SEEN the fewest strawberries this year for many years. I haven't learned if there wasn't many berries or if for some reason I have continued to miss them. Everyone I pick up a paper I see delicious recipes of some strawberry dish and the most delicious sounding strawberry short cake imaginable. Because of the berries involved and because I'm not lucky enough to find the strawberries, anyway, I quit reading those recipes.

THIS IS THE TIME of year to begin seeing bees swarming and looking for a home for their queen. The activity of the bee is about the most fascinating thing I know of when it comes to their habits. I have wanted a glass hive so I could watch their honey making and watch their queen and the raising of a queen but haven't yet been able to afford to get one. I have two hives in our back yard here in Florida that I borrowed. Fern Cox, who I interested in bees had two hives and when he moved to Elba he didn't have anywhere to put them. I offered to keep them because I really wanted them for observation and also for the benefit of flowers in our yard. If I let myself you wouldn't get to read about anything but bees this week for I would take up all the space available and beg for more space if I let myself write about bees and their habits.

MACK HAS BEEN suffering with what is called the gout. Most couple of weeks, Gout is a disease marked by painful swelling and inflammation of the joints or lower limbs, especially of the big toe. When he was told by his friends that only rich people have the gout he said this is one time the "Gout" make a mistake.

IT COST the Defense Department $10,000 to protect the Selma - to - Montgomery civil rights marchers, according to the Pentagon. This raised to nearly $13 million the cost of using federal troops and federalized National Guardsmen in five major civil rights crises dating back to Little Rock in 1957.

Just think of the benefit of that $13 million if used for the actual benefit of the Southern Negro in actual education.

ROBERT M. SHELTON, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America says that President Johnson can't afford to carry through an investigation of his organization, because if he does he is also going to have to investigate so-called left wing organizations like CORE, SNCC, COFO, etc.

Skelton also says that at the trial of the men accused of slaying a civil rights worker uncommon for estimates to prove short of the actuality. Even as now, Congress in some instances has shown itself eager to spend more than the President has asked.

Two questions are constantly being debated. One is: What will happen if the nation should be caught in a depression or even a substantial recession? Administration economists believe that government programs and powers assure a way to significant recessions can be prevented or quickly ended. Others are not so certain.

The second question is: In the light of what spending, what will happen to the remaining value of the dollar? Administration leaders seem convinced that there is small danger that inflation on anything resembling a critical scale is in the offing. Again, others are not so certain.

To say the obvious, we can only wait and see.

WHAT INTERESTS the readers of weekly newspapers? The Selma Press Forum conducted a survey to find the answer to that question, make him an honorary member. He said that since LBJ announced his investigation of the Klan he has personally received about 12,000 letters supporting his cause.

About the best way I know to create interest in the Klan is for just what is happening to continue. If we stay around long enough it will be Klan vs. NAACP or some such thing with LBJ losing out on both sides.

IT SEEMS almost unbelievable that the authors of the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights could have produced such guides for freedom in the comparatively short space of time involved.

Of necessity, it must be recognized that the authors do not produce freedom. People have to wrest freedom from governments. After they secure freedom, it is an endless task to retain it. Government authority over the people grows in "sometimes" readiness of 98.1 per cent.

The weekly paper is one of the most welcome of visitors to rural homes. It stays for seven days, not just one. And the whole family has a lasting and hearty appetite for just about everything in its columns.

A third mailing is being made to the many veterans who have asked for information since the law was passed last October.

Any veteran in the above groups who does not receive an application and instruction pamphlet in the mail should write, telephone or visit the nearest VA office.

If there are veterans, there are about 1,600,000 other veterans who are eligible for this insurance. These are the veterans who were found to have a service-connected disability so slight that they were not eligible for compensation payments. As a result they are not eligible for the insurance and the VA does not have their present addresses.

Belshazzar, king of Babylon, held a great feast. It was the feast of a hand appeared and wrote on the wall. "Mene, mene, tekel, upharsin." Daniel, a Hebrew prophet, was called to translate the words. "Mene," said Daniel, "means God has numbered your kingdom and finished it. Tekel: You are weighed in the balances and found wanting. Peres (another word for upharsin): Your kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

That night, the story continues, the prediction was fulfilled: Belshazzar was slain and his kingdom overthrown.

National Service Life Insurance Policies Now Being Sold

Instruction pamphlets and application blanks for the new National Service Life Insurance were sent during April to more than 4,000,000 veterans, the Veterans Administration announced today.

The new insurance went on sale May 1, 1965. It can be bought after May 2, 1965.

The mailings were made to all those veterans receiving service-connected compensation payments. All of these veterans, except a small percentage who already have $10,000 GI insurance coverage, are eligible for the new insurance.

Another mailing goes to those veterans whose insurance records show that the face value of their policies is $9,000 or less. Any of these veterans who have a service-connected disability are eligible for the new insurance in amounts to increase their total GI insurance to $10,000.

A third mailing is being made to the many veterans who have asked for information since the law was passed last October.

IT'S THE TRUTH

The tarantula looks ferocious, but actually it is secretive and retiring, hunting by night and hiding by day. The poisonous bite of the American tarantula is fatal only to insects. It may bite human beings in self-defense, but the small wound heals quickly if it is properly treated to avoid infection.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

We've heard much about the health of the body, but not so much about the health of the mind. The health of the mind is just as important as the health of the body. The health of the mind is just as important as the health of the body.

Doctor Naomi Kanof, Washington, D. C., dermatologist, reported recently that certain types of stubborn skin ulcers healed rapidly when dressed with layers of specially prepared gold leaf. The physician said that the healing process was remarkably rapid. The reasons for the precious shield works so effectively, Doctor Kanof told Women's Medical News Service, are not yet fully understood.

Doctor Kanof is Chief of Dermatology at Children's Hospital, Washington, D. C. He believes use of the "pill" in the latter half of the cycle, combined with a limited period of abstinence, will make the rhythm method secure.

A Michigan doctor reports that he may have found an efficient method of conception control based on the rhythm method and the use of "the pill" after ovulation has occurred. Doctor James G. Matthews, of Berkeley, Michigan, presented the following findings at a meeting of the American College of Obstetric and Gynecologists and Gynecologists, of such early diagnosis of such heart defect is important so that proper medication, diet, and advice concerning exercise can be given before heart surgery is undertaken, if such surgery is necessary.

Note to Parents (and Doctors): Babies born with an arm or hand defect may also have a heart defect. This alert comes from a medical team headed by Dr. Kenneth B. Lewis, of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Doctor Lewis said that early diagnosis of such heart defect is important so that proper medication, diet, and advice concerning exercise can be given before heart surgery is undertaken, if such surgery is necessary.

Fort Rucker To Observe Armed Forces Day May 15

An air show studied with the firsts will mark Fort Rucker's observance of Armed Forces Day on May 15.

During the air show, Wiregrass visitors will get their first in-action views of the giant CH-54 "Sky Crane" and the OH-5 and OH-6 helicopters which are competing for the Light Observation Helicopter contract.

A highlight of the air show, which will begin at 8:45 a.m. at Cairns Army Airfield, will be 15 minutes of thrills and chills by one of the world's great stunt flyers, Bevo Howard. He will be making his first appearance at Fort Rucker Armed Forces Day observance since 1962, and he will put his Buckner Jungmeister bi-plane through some seemingly impossible maneuvers.

In announcing the Fort Rucker observance, Brig. General John J. Tolson, commanding general, points out that the activities are "designed to provide an insight on the thorough and demanding training necessary for a proficient fighting force. The necessity of Army aviation has never before been so evident as in the current Viet-Nam conflict."

In keeping with these thoughts, a substantial part of the air show will be a simulated tactical mission, starting with the parachuting of paratroopers to mark the landing zone. After they are established on the ground, helicopters and fixed wing aircraft will fly in troops and supplies, doing aerial drops and landing men and material. Additionally, there will be landing and take-off demonstrations by all fixed and rotary wing aircraft used by the Army, including the "Sky Crane" and the Light Observation Helicopters.

The air show will also include an aerobatic demonstration, by the OV-10 "Mottaw" skydiving by members of the Fort Rucker Sport Parachute Club, and a glider performance staged by the Soaring Club of Fort Rucker.

In addition to the air show, there will be a wide variety of static displays at Cairns Field, including aircraft, ground equipment, and support activities of the Army Aviation Center.

The static displays will be open until 5 p.m. Saturday, May 15, with the air show ending at 10:45 a.m.

Dead Oyster Shells Build Reefs On Bottom Of Mobile Bay

The dead shell reefs in Mobile Bay originated thousands of years ago. Female oysters spawned millions of eggs. Male released sperm cells by the millions. Floating freely in the water, the eggs were fertilized. In about three weeks, a tiny shell developed. At this stage the young oyster is called a spat.

Spat must settle on a clean surface within a short time or die. A layer of shell or grown oyster is the preferable surface for spat to settle on. If a spat sinks into soft mud it dies. And the longer it takes to find a place to attach itself, the more chance it has of being eaten by some of its many natural enemies.

Many things have favored spat in Mobile Bay down through the centuries. There were plenty of clean, hard surfaces for the spat to settle on. Tidal water movement provided a source of food and the right mixture of fresh and salt water. The spat thrives on a micro-organism brought to it by the water's movement since once attached to a surface, it remains there.

For thousands of years, the oysters in Mobile Bay lived out their lives, never moving. As they died off, more spat attached themselves to the dead shells and began a new life cycle. As the new crop of oysters matured and died, more spat grew to replace them. In this manner, through the centuries, the shell reefs of the bay were built.

Then, ages ago, disaster struck a crop of live oysters and they died. The reefs were covered with silt and mud, up to 20 feet deep in the upper reaches of the bay.

Perhaps there was a tremendous flood from the Alabama river system. Too much fresh water is fatal to oysters. They may have died because of this. Or perhaps the rivers changed courses and allowed too much salt water from the Gulf to enter the bay.

Oysters can live in very salty water. The oyster's many natural enemies—conchs, drills, starfish—also thrive in salt water. Brackish water is the oyster's major protection. Whatever the cause, the oysters died and their shells built the reefs on the bottom of the upper bay.

SEQUOYAH CAVES

During the Spring and Summer months literally thousands of Alabamians take to their automobiles to visit the hundreds of tourist attractions which can be found in this beautiful state. One such place that has started drawing travelers is Sequoyah Caves in the mountainous region of DeKalb County in Northeast Alabama 5 miles north of Hammondville. This is only a one minute drive off U.S. 11 and five minutes off Interstate 95.

Sequoyah Caves is one of the newest tourists attractions in that section of Alabama and was opened to the public one year ago last month. It is billed as one of "America's most beautiful caverns". According to history Sequoyah Caves was discovered and occupied by the Indians over five hundred years before Christ.

Today's visitor will marvel at glittering stalactites, stalagmites, delicate root-like helictites and thousands of formations which give the cave the shape of animals, human and inanimate objects. A major feature of the cave is almost perfect indirect electric lighting which tremendous depth. On the grounds there are picnic areas, barbecue pits and a beautiful walking lounge and gift shop. In the plans are a large lake and campsite which is scheduled for opening this summer. A trip to Fort Payne will not be complete without visiting Sequoyah Caves.

State and local agencies received more than $20 million from sale and taxation of alcoholic beverages in Alabama in 1964.

TIPS FROM SARA HUTCHINSON

"You must take the little potato with the big potato," the Irish say. And how right they are.

In today's grocery stores, bagged potatoes often contain an assortment of sizes—a few small and a few big along with the desired medium-sized potatoes.

U.S. Department of Agriculture food specialists say a bit of planning will fit these stray sizes into your meals.

Large potatoes make attractive bakers, while small potatoes are natural for simmering whole in stews. It's also an excellent idea to use odd sizes in potato salad and dishes that call for raw, or cut-up potatoes.

Many gardeners are puzzled when their spring flowering bulbs don't bloom. Most bulbs do poorly in soils that are wet for long periods of time, so good drainage is essential.

If newly-planted bulbs do not flower, they may be planted too deep.

Other reasons for bulbs not blooming, are harmful insects, over-crowding of bulbs, and not enough sunlight.

Gardeners need to check for and correct these conditions before planting any new bulbs.

Flower and vegetable garden enthusiasts need to watch for worms during early spring. The pests attack annual flowers such as marigolds and zinnias and the spring vegetables tomatos, cabbage, peas, beans and eggplant.

The cutworm spends the day under clods of dirt just beneath the ground surface. Usually it digs a small hole and pulls leaves and plant parts in for food.

The cutworm attacks in late afternoon or at night.

To control these pests, sprinkle Emdin or Toxaphene dust on the soil around your plants. Be careful not to get these materials on foliage or leafy vegetables.

A famous chef once said: "The egg is the cement that holds the castles of ly burned. If you use a solvent, follow directions to the letter—no shortcuts. And if you use one and it doesn't work, do the trick, tell your plumber contractor what you have done before letting him begin work.

Try to serve at least five eggs a week to each member of the family.
